

MANTECH electronic services was established in 1991, and has designed and produced a wide variety of electronic circuits which implicitly enter in many applications.

We believe in the relationship to work closely with customers to cooperate at every stage from initial design to full production.

To satisfy the demands of manufacturers and system designers who required professional and innovative packing by filling their present needs and also to explore together the long-term opportunities in this highly competitive environment. This enables our customers to access to our facilities without capital investments in process development and equipment of their own.

The extensive experience of electronic technology enables us to make creative developments in material and manufacturing process.

The advantage of this wide ranging experience and broad technological background are evident in every product we made.
